

PRESIDENT'S BODY REACHES SAD CAPITOL

Yanks In New Elbe Crossing; 3rd Severs Munich Highway

PARIS, April 14.—The American Ninth army won a second crossing over the Elbe river today and fought slowly forward on the outer defenses of Berlin.

First and Third army tanks hurtled well past Leipzig, near the Russian lines and advanced into the Nazi mountain stronghold of Bayreuth.

The tanking sweep past Leipzig carried deep into Saxony to within 40 miles of Chemnitz, 88 miles from the Russian lines and 38 from Dresden.

To all practical purposes, Germany was virtually bisected for the last direct communications from Berlin south—including the superhighway to Munich—were cut. The Third army was within 25 miles of Czechoslovakia and had bypassed the northwest tip of that republic.

Dortmund Captured

The Ninth army captured Dortmund, second largest city of the Ruhr and 11th largest in Germany. Its 537,000 peacetime residents worked in thirty great coal mines over the city sprawling and in its vast steel and iron mills and synthetic oil plants. The city was an important traffic center but was a ruin from bomb and shell.

Supreme headquarters did not disclose where the new Elbe crossing was made. (BBC said the crossing was 15 miles southeast of Magdeburg at Barby.)

The original bridgehead was established by the Hell on Wheels (Second Armored) division using assault boats near Magdeburg. The nearest Ninth army troops last were reported 45 miles from Berlin and fighting on the flat Brandenburg plain.

Not was there fresh information on the streaking Third army tank columns which drove across the Mulde river in eastern Germany to within 10 miles of Chemnitz and 38 of Dresden. They were joined, however, by the First army's Ninth Armored division in a flanking run around the south side of Leipzig, where a million German civilians were reported huddled in cellars.

Among cities captured were Brunswick, Jena, Zeitz, Saafield, Rudolstadt, Sangerhausen, Weissenfels, Gerolzhofen, Lichtenfels and Lichtenau.

The Seventh army fought into the rail center of Bamberg, 32 miles from Nuremberg, and on a canal to the Danube. Fighting flared through the cities of Magdeburg, Dortmund, Bayreuth, Gera and the Dutch centers of Arnhem, Groeningen, Zwolle and Apeldoorn.

The British besieged Bremen and outflanked Hamburg by plunging 36 miles to within 23 of the Elbe south of Hamburg.

Allies May Proclaim V-E Day

Fighting In Germany May Last Through Winter, Shaef Hints

By JAMES M. LONG

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, Paris, April 14.—The German army, still fighting fiercely in the east, no longer has either a cohesive front nor a coherent command in the west. The long-awaited Allied linkup severing the Reich in the middle is near—but that does not mean that the war in Europe will end at that time.

There might still be military fighting on into next winter, but it was not likely it would still be regarded as an active phase of the European war.

V-E day will come, according to the best available opinion here, somewhere between the Allied linkup and the end of subsequent fighting. It will come by Allied proclamation, and not by German surrender.

Events since Gen. Eisenhower's fortnight ago predicted that the Germans would continue to fight as best they could until the last inch of the Reich had been overrun have only served to underscore the Supreme commander's words.

He declared then that the Nazis would not quit; that victory probably would be announced by proclamation.

Joint Proclamation Seen

But it is hardly likely that Eisenhower alone could or would proclaim a V-E day. It would be proclaimed by a joint agreement with Premier Marshal Stalin, and it could hardly come, whatever the success of the cleanup in the west, until the eastern front, too, had collapsed.

There is no disposition here to believe that even splitting the Reich in two would cause the collapse of a fighting front—actually many fighting fronts as the German command disintegrated into separate pockets of major resistance.

These fronts already are forming. One, perhaps the weakest of two, is shaping up in the north in a great arc backed up against the Baltic sea and trying to hold the northern ports and perhaps Berlin.

The other would be a great arc the south centered upon the "national redoubt" of Nazi Germany—the hilly, mountainous southern Germany and northern Austria between Lake Constance and Berchtesgaden.

The arc in the north would probably break into more than one pocket, particularly if the Allies in the west continue their wedge toward Hamburg and Luebeck.

Await Mop-up Stage

It would mean there would be the Berlin are to clear out, the northern ports, the flooded fortress of western Holland—perhaps eventually even Denmark and Norway.

It seemed clear that, just as surely as victory would not be proclaimed on the day of the American and Russian linkup, neither would the proclamation be withheld until the last shooting on German soil was over.

It is conceivable—even probable—that when it is proclaimed the Germans might still have at least a nominal army in the field, perhaps two—one in Norway and one in the national redoubt.

The proclamation would not necessarily await breakdown of the German opposition into purely guerrilla resistance.

But it would certainly not come until virtually all of Germany is seized and resistance whittled down to mere mop-up.

SALVAGE PICKUPS PLANNED SUNDAY

Remember to have your waste paper, old clothes and tin cans ready for the salvage collection on the north side of Salem early Sunday morning.

Conducted by the Junior Chamber of commerce, the collection will be made on all streets on the north side of State st. tomorrow and on those south of State st. the following Sunday.

Paper must be either bundled or placed in cartons, tin cans must be flattened and placed in containers and old clothes are to be bundled, officials said.

Collection of used clothing on this drive is a part of the United National Clothing collection.

All Jaycee members are asked to report at the Pennsylvania depot at 8:30 a. m. Sunday.

Autos Collide In Fog, 5 Are Injured

Five persons suffered minor injuries at 9:10 p. m. yesterday when a car driven by Lloyd A. Heath, 18, of Newell, W. Va., collided near head-on with another vehicle, driven by John A. Barrett, 39, of East Liverpool, on Route 7, about three miles north of Route 30.

Heath told state patrolmen his car lights went bad and he crashed with the other car in a dense fog. He suffered lacerations of the left hand and a bruised forehead. The other driver had a deep laceration of the lip, body bruises and contusions.

Morton Morgan of East Liverpool, a passenger with Heath, received a compound fracture of the left leg and lacerations of the lip. Ethel Sauls, riding with Barrett, suffered lacerations of the forehead, contusions and a possible fracture of the left foot. Another passenger in the car, George Hannah, also of East Liverpool, had lacerations about his face and forehead.

All were taken to the East Liverpool City hospital.

NATION BOWS HEAD AT 4 P. M. TODAY

Normal activity ceases in Salem and the rest of Ohio today for five minutes starting at 4 p. m. when the funeral for the late President Roosevelt begins in the White House.

This gesture to the memory of the late President was asked last night by Gov. Frank J. Lausche.

War plants planned to continue their usual schedules, pausing only for two minutes of silent prayer at 4.

Salem stores were to close for three hours this afternoon, respecting at 4, out of respect to the late President.

BIGGEST RAID ROCKS TOKYO

Fire Bombs of Superforts Cause Blasts Heard 100 Miles Away

GUAM, April 14.—The greatest B-29 raiding force yet struck the arsenal area of Tokyo early today with fire bombs, causing explosions which pilots said were heard more than 100 miles away.

Explosive blasts bounced the 60-ton Superforts as much as one mile upward through the air, pilots said.

The Japanese met the raiders with jet-propelled fighters which B-29 crewmen said flashed across the sky like great balls of fire.

There was no official report yet on Superfort losses, but one returning crewman said losses were light despite the jet-propelled interceptors.

Take 114,000th Prisoner

The Ruhr pocket was stamped down to a fourth its original size as the 114,000th prisoner streamed from the confines of Germany's greatest industrial valley. The First army took 34,847 prisoners yesterday, 19,994 from the Ruhr. More than 50,000 surrendered the day before.

The Canadians were attacking 200,000 caught in a larger trap in Holland and helping the British erase 40,000 pocketed southwest of Bremen. Already 400,000 Germans have been taken this month.

Supreme headquarters said French troops under Gen. Edouard Belin made a limited attack at an undisclosed point on the French coast—"The forgotten front"—where thousands of Germans still hold the Grondie estuary, La Rochelle, St. Nazaire, Lorient and Dunkerque. Some 1,150 American heavy bombers attacked the Germans at Royan and Pointe de Grave, barring access to the port of Bordeaux.

The First army's Third Armored division pushed five miles up the Shale river just north of Halle (220,632). To the rear, infantry fought seven miles deeper into the Harz mountains, where an isolated force of Germans is trying to hold out.

Third army infantry was rushing up between Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Fourth and Sixth Armored divisions while his Thunderbolt (1st Armored) division broke into Gera, 35 miles south of Leipzig.

$383,243 IS BOND QUOTA FOR PLANTS

Eighteen Salem manufacturing plants, with a total of more than 3,500 employees, have set their E Bond quota in the Seventh War loan at $383,243.

The campaign got under way Monday morning under the chairmanship of L. W. Nash, manager of the E. W. Bliss Co. with employees signing pledge cards to buy bonds during the drive.

By noon Monday the Quaker City Foundry reported it had gone over the top, having attained 139 per cent of its quota. By Wednesday the Lincoln Machine Co. also was well over its quota.

The Salem China Co. was the first of the larger plants to exceed its quota. This was accomplished by Thursday noon.

PASTORS SPONSOR MEMORIAL RITES SUNDAY EVENING

Rev. R. E. Mosher, pastor of the First Friends church, and Dr. James A. Scott, pastor of the Methodist church, will give talks at the community Memorial service for President Franklin D. Roosevelt at 8 p. m. Sunday in the Methodist church.

The event is being sponsored by the Salem Ministerial association of which Rev. Mosher is president. The program will be as follows:

Hymn, "How Firm a Foundation," led by Capt. Robert Barton; prayer, Rev. John Bauman; responsive reading, Rev. Scott; selection by the women's chorus of Emmanuel Lutheran church; Bible lesson, Rev. G. D. Keister; talk, Rev. Mosher; silent prayer and tape; selection, women's chorus; talk, Rev. Scott; prayer for national guidance, Rev. C. F. Evans; closing hymn, "O Master Let Me Walk With Thee"; benediction.

The association is inviting all churches to unite in this service.

Salem schools paused in assembly programs yesterday to pay tribute to President Roosevelt.

Individual memorial programs were arranged in each school yesterday afternoon as the city's students paid their respects to the only president most of them can remember. Schools were dismissed early.

At High school Rev. C. F. Evans, Principal B. G. Ludwig and Supt. E. S. Kerr led the memorial assembly.

The complete programs at High school and at Prospect Street school were:

High School

Sacred music, orchestra; opening remarks, B. G. Ludwig; Scripture and prayer (13th chapter of First Corinthians), Rev. C. F. Evans; "O, Captain! My Captain!" (Whitman), Betty Gibula; tribute to President Roosevelt, Supp. Kerr; Lord's prayer and benediction, Rev. Evans.

Prospect Street

"Little Things," first grade; "Children of the Heavenly King," second grade; "America, the Beautiful," third grade; "O, Captain! My Captain!" (Whitman), Joe Winkler; "Largo," sixth grade; "Crossing the Bar," Margaret Hunter; "Hymn of Thanks," fourth grade; "Tribute to President Roosevelt" and prayer, Rev. Ashtley Wilson; "Abide With Me," fifth grade; "America," group.

Three Other Presidents Buried Near Hudson River

ALBANY, N. Y., April 14.—President Roosevelt will be the fourth President buried along the shores of the Hudson river.

His body will be interred tomorrow at his Hyde Park estate. Ulysses S. Grant was buried in New York City; Martin Van Buren at Kinderhook, and Chester A. Arthur at Albany.

Two other presidents were buried in New York state—Theodore Roosevelt at Oyster Bay, L. I., and Millard Fillmore at Buffalo.

CORP. TULLIS DIES IN ACTION

Salem Marine Killed On Iwo Jima March 21, Telegram Discloses

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Tullis of the Washingtonville rd. received word last night that their son, Corp. Warren E. Tullis, 24, of the Fifth Marine division, 28th regiment, had been killed in action on Iwo Jima March 21.

Corp. Tullis enlisted in the Marines May 20, 1942, and had been overseas since September, 1944.

He was born in Salem, Feb. 25, 1921. He was a graduate of Salem High school and was employed at the Ravenscroft arsenal before entering the service. Prior to that time he was employed by the Electric Furnace Co.

Besides his parents he is survived by one sister, Evelyn, and one brother, Gene, both at home, and his grandmother, Mrs. Abbie Sell, also of the home.

Gene has enlisted in the Marines and expects to leave Thursday evening for service.

SWETYE, CHARLTON, GERMAN PRISONERS

Casualty news today includes two Salem soldiers, both prisoners in Germany, who have written home telling their families of their whereabouts.

Tech. Corp. Joseph Swetye, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Swetye, Sr., 965 S. Ellsworth ave., is a prisoner in Germany, according to a card, written by him, from a prison on Jan. 9. He tells his family that he is well, asks for a Red Cross package and writes that he is doing his own cooking there.

He had been missing since Dec. 16.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Charlton of E. Seventh st. recently received a letter from their son, Staff Sgt. Arthur Charlton, 21, who has been a prisoner of war in Germany, telling them that he was wounded Nov. 9 and taken prisoner. He said he was in a "nice hospital and receiving good care." He added that he was sure everything would turn out all right.

Staubenville Soldier Survives Prison March

A PRISONER OF WAR CAMP, Wefenbuttel, Germany, April 12.—(Delayed)—American soldiers freed by the Allied advance told today of numerous deaths among their fellow prisoners from freezing and sickness and of guards' cruelty during forced marches from eastern camps as the Germans fled before the Red army.

The Americans were freed by the British Second Armored division. The Tommies gave the men—weeping with joy—eggs, cigarettes and field rations.

Soldiers captured on various fronts told similar stories of horror marches during which frantic German guards beat and cursed them and left many to die when they dropped out in snow, rain and sleet.

In February detachments of American and British prisoners were marched 600 miles from East Prussia. Scores froze or starved to death.

Those who freed were Pvt. John McDonald, Staubenville, Ohio.

Funeral Set For 4 p.m. In White House

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The body of President Roosevelt reached a sorrowful Capital shortly before 10 a. m. today.

President Truman and members of the cabinet were at the Union station a few minutes before the train pulled in at 9:50 a. m. (EWT), waiting to lead a mournful procession to the White House.

Members of the Roosevelt family were the first to enter the funeral train, followed by President Truman.

Brig. Gen. Elliott Roosevelt and his wife and Mr. and Mrs. John Boettiger went aboard.

They were followed by Adm. William D. Leahy, who was President Roosevelt's military chief of staff; by Bernard Baruch, James P. Byrnes, and War Mobilization Director Fred M. Vinson.

Members of the Supreme court and their wives, and cabinet officers and their wives also entered the train.

As the government officials, heads of state, walked slowly toward the cars a Marine band softly played "Hail to the Chief" and the National anthem.

The funeral train was parked on a Union station siding near a bustling freight depot. Crowds thronged as close as police would let them to the train. At the rear of the President's car stood a huge army caisson and seven white horses awaiting the body of the late President.

The body was lifted to the caisson at 9:58 a. m., and the procession began its slow trip to the White House, where private funeral services were to be held at 4 p. m. today.

Virtually every high dignitary of the government rode in the procession as it wended its way through the railroad sidings and on to the picturesque Union station plaza which faces the national Capitol.

Two of Mr. Roosevelt's secretaries, Stephen T. Early and William D. Hassett rode together in one car. Behind them came another member of the White House secretariat, Jonathan Daniels.

Swad-faced and with his shoulders slumped, Samuel Rosenman, Mr. Roosevelt's long-time counsel, rode in one of the cars reserved for the former President's closest friends. Rosenman has been associated with Mr. Roosevelt in one capacity or another since the days when the late President was governor of New York.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, a Hudson valley neighbor of the Roosevelts, rode alone; his head bowed in grief. He glanced neither right nor left as the procession moved out of the station. Two sharp high notes of a sailor's pipe signalled the start of the long cortege.

With the bass drums of a military band thumping mournfully in the distance, a battalion of Marines, followed by a strong detachment of blue jackets, tramped solemnly up Constitution ave.

A wedge of 25 blueclad motorcycle policemen pattered and popped in the line of march.

Sun, circled overhead. It took almost 20 minutes for the entire funeral party to get underway to the White House.

Despite Mrs. Roosevelt's request that no flowers be sent, several truckloads of blossoms arrived at the White House and were unloaded at the front door. Among these floral tributes were several from foreign governments.

Caisson Bears Casket Down Constitution Avenue

Two minutes after the last car of the procession pulled away from the station the railroad siding was deserted and the funeral train stood by itself somber and alone.

Then suddenly the crowd that had been pent up behind guard ropes some distance away burst through and swarmed around the famous and much traveled presidential railroad car.

Police dashed in and cut off the rush of curious spectators.

The presidential car was laden with floral offerings. Shades were lifted in the living room section, giving the spectators a momentary glimpse of the famous "Rolling White House."

Down Constitution ave., a team of seven white horses drew the four-wheeled caisson on which the casket of the fallen President lay. The

Burial Rites At Hyde Park On Sunday Afternoon

The bustle of government was stilled for the day, closed by a proclamation of President Harry S. Truman calling the nation to prayer.

Arrival of the funeral train signalled the start of a month's memorial in the armed services. But War Production Chairman J. A. Krug asked no interruption in war industry.

A few hours after the White House services the funeral party will entrain for Hyde Park. There private burial service will be held at 10 a. m. (EWT) Sunday in a hedged flower garden on the Roosevelt estate—a spot predestined to become a national shrine.

The final resting place lies near the placid Hudson river which Mr. Roosevelt loved.

The President's widow, his daughter, one son and four daughters-in-law probably will make up the family party at the funeral.

Presidential Secretary Jonathan Daniels said Brig. Gen. Elliott Roosevelt—the second son—is expected from London. He said Col. James Roosevelt, eldest of the Roosevelt boys, probably would be unable to reach Washington in time.

The other two sons, John and Franklin, Jr., are on naval duty and cannot get here. Anna Boettiger, only daughter of the Roosevelts, has been living at the White House.

A Courageous Leader

For the first time since Abraham Lincoln's death 80 years ago, the United States must sustain the loss of a president in a war crisis.

Each of us must resolve to give our republic the full advantage of the constitutional procedure to protect the orderly continuation of government. This will be done.

Franklin D. Roosevelt's death will not interfere with prosecution of the war. Allied strategy has been decided and is now in effect. The conduct of further operations is in sure hands.

President Truman takes up the burden of the Presidency with assurance of all the help his countrymen can give him. The peoples' prayers will strengthen him.

Mr. Roosevelt's long tenure in the nation's highest office and his role as a peacetime leader who accepted the challenge of aggression to become a bulwark against the enemies of freedom gave him unique political prestige. But the eventuality of death must always be faced; we must accept it as must all people who find strong leaders.

In all the theaters of war, American men and women have been saddened by the tragedy that overtook their commander-in-chief when the victory they had approached under his guidance seemed so near. Throughout the nation, in homes, in public places, on the streets, tears were shed. And throughout the world people who had looked to Mr. Roosevelt as a great leader share in America's mourning.

Courage was Mr. Roosevelt's shining badge of leadership. For 12 years aspects of his political character which displeased critics have been discussed openly, in the American tradition of free speech. His shortcomings and his merits all were known.

But no one ever questioned his courage and his unflinching devotion to the hard tasks he set for himself. We commend him to posterity, knowing that he will be accepted as we knew him in this lifetime—a great American.

No one can speak with certainty of the new political patterns that will come into being with his death. Mr. Truman has inherited unusual party responsibility as well as a great administrative burden. There is nothing to be gained now, and perhaps something to be lost, by trying to comprehend too much too soon.

Despite recurrent rumors of Mr. Roosevelt's declining health during the last year, the nation had not fully prepared itself for the blow that fell Thursday. It was our wishful thought that Mr. Roosevelt would like to finish the work he had carried so far toward completion. The warnings voiced in last year's presidential contest fell on deaf ears. The people could not believe what they feared might happen.

But now it has happened. The same old problems pass into the hands of a new president. Mr. Truman must guide the arrangements for the conclusion of the war, the peace and the means of preserving peace.

There will be inevitably a hiatus while new hands pick up the dropped threads. But there will be no change in intentions or hopes. Our direction has been pointed out. Our determination to fulfill America's destiny as the last best hope of mankind will not falter.

We will find new courage in the example of a great American who never failed us when courage was needed. There could be no nobler memorial to his memory.

Thomas Jefferson: National Asset

The weird arrangement under which political parties stake out claims on the prestige of our greatest men has given the modern Democratic party prior rights on Thomas Jefferson, who engaged in politics as a Republican. His party's name, of course, did not continue into the times of the modern Republicans, though the alchemy of politics has grouped him more closely with them than with the Democrats since 1933.

Perhaps what is needed is a statute putting great men into the public domain within 10 years after their death, to avert confusion. Thomas Jefferson, on this year's celebration of the anniversary of his birth in 1743 as on many preceding occasions, rightly belongs to all the people. For many generations he has had his rightful place as one of the several really important sources of the great thoughts on which the nation's survival has depended. While the stature of men who were considered more important than he during his lifetime has remained fixed, or in some instances declined, his stature has grown steadily.

This can be ascribed to a single cause. Jefferson, a many-sided man, attained rare philosophic balance in the pursuit of his numerous interests—that was his fixed goal, as statesman, diplomat, author, scientist, architect and thinker. Had he not become President, he would be remembered as the author of the Declaration of Independence. Lacking either of these distinctions, he would have been remembered as a great patriot, or as one who excelled in one of his other pursuits. In sum, it was his ability to think clearly in the interest of all the people which has commended him for his special niche in history. While the benefit of that thinking remains with us, the property of all the people, we will be justified in retaining the faith which made him perhaps the greatest apostle of the American dream.

Too Much To Hope

Germany's last great battle. If there is going to be one, it is too much to hope that Adolf Hitler will be one of the participants, with Himmler fighting on his right, Goebbels on his left, and a platoon of specially qualified party fanatics in the rear.

It would be a perfect climax for the adventurers who took shrewd advantage of German paranoia to lead a military resurgence. Hitler crouched behind a machinegun . . . Goebbels lobbing grenades . . . Himmler at bay with a pistol . . . all screaming mad defiance at the enemy.

And the Allies, of course, would be represented by a picked platoon, too—chosen from the United Nations. Better yet, almost any outfit from the United States Army would do; all the United Nations would be there. Men from the cities and the farms . . . of all faiths, all nationalities, all racial strains.

They would take care of Hitler and his henchmen in a hurry. Hitler, as a fighting man in World War I, knows what it's like to be beaten. Some of the others would be learning for the first time. In all probability, they wouldn't take much beating before their hands went up over their heads, though it would be prearranged for that gesture of surrender not to be seen in time.

But it is too much to hope. The men who start wars in modern times never fight in them. If they did, prevention of war would be automatic.

The Stars Say

For Sunday, April 15

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds testimony of exceptional excitement and interest in all spiritual, ecclesiastical, public, domestic, as well as intellectual and romantic affairs which move swiftly and thrillingly toward pleasant, prosperous and gratifying goals. It is probable that affairs of the young and romantic may reach dramatic heights, if not spectacular or sensational. Elopements often occur under this aspect, else new relationships or plans.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a lively, dramatic and stimulating year in which new plans, contacts or business agreements may give much thrill and gratification. Change, travel, writings, publicity and agencies are involved, promising lucrative and happy fulfillments. Fresh starts and new buildups are in order, with change and new ties.

A child born on this day will have much talent, ingenuity and skill devoted to intellectual, scientific or inventive ends, although it will also have good business or commercial ability.

For Monday, April 16

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a very lively and probably exciting day in which seeking for new work, positions or assistance may greatly accelerate the operations. If the energies and talents be calmly, wisely and worthily developed and presented, there may be enduring advantages and some progress. But a state of turbulence, tempest, confusion and force would have little effect in forcing issues or removing tenacious obstacles; neither would impetuosity, strife, extravagance and over-indulgences gain any worthwhile place.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year in which swift-moving events might incite impulsive, and over-energetic or strenuous moods or acts, which would prove detrimental and entail loss or regrets. New jobs, support, and propositions are more likely to develop by means of restrained impulses, wise and energetic activities and with less grief and sorrow. Maintain balance for desired attainments.

A child born on this day may be tempestuous, rash and impulsive to its detriment.

WASHINGTON April 14.—A special stamp may be issued by the postoffice department to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the signing of the famous treaty of Greenville.

Postmaster General Frank C. Walker is expected to announce his decision shortly. Greenville, Ohio, is arranging a celebration for the anniversary, Aug. 3.

A commemorative stamp was requested in a letter to the postmaster general by John E. Vance, treasurer of the treaty of Greenville Sesquicentennial commission.

The treaty, signed Aug. 3, 1795, culminated the brilliant and successful campaign of Gen. "Mad Anthony" Wayne against the Indians.

Food investigations by official senate and house committees aren't interfering with the activities of a special house Republican Food Study committee headed by Rep. Tom Jenkins of Ironton.

Jenkins says his group has assembled information that will prove valuable to the new bipartisan committees, interested primarily in the meat situation.

Jenkins' committee deals with all phases of wartime food problems. It receives and studies complaints from irate citizens, refers them to appropriate agencies, and then cooperates in finding an adjustment, he explains.

Preparing For New Hay Fever Season

BY HERMAN N. BUNDENSEN, M.D.

THE hay fever season may seem a long way off, but now is the time for treatment to prevent the condition. Hay fever is a disorder which, in most persons, is due to over-sensitivity to the pollen or fertilizing powder from ragweed.

The ragweed pollen becomes widespread in most parts of the United States during the latter part of August and throughout September, but preventive treatments should be started several months in advance of the season.

A patient with hay fever suffers from attacks of sneezing, running of the nose and watering of the eyes.

Skin Tests Made

In attempting to prevent hay fever, the first step is to determine exactly to what pollen the patient is sensitive. This is done by making skin tests which are carried out by injecting the pollen into the skin, or by rubbing it into scratches made on the skin, and noting whether or not a red swelling occurs around the point where the pollen enters the skin. Once the pollen causing the trouble is discovered, the treatment is begun by injecting pollen extract in gradually increasing doses.

Doctor Mary H. Loveless of New York City believes that before the hay fever season starts, injections of pollen may be given rapidly. She started the treatment by giving four small doses of the pollen at half-hour intervals, then increasing the doses until a point was reached where injections were given only twice in a week.

Many of the patients obtained excellent results, and the results were satisfactory in practically all cases. More than half of the patients had reactions during this rapid treatment although the reactions as a rule were mild. In a few instances, an injection of the drug epinephrine under the skin, was needed to control the symptoms produced by the reactions. Epinephrine overcame the symptoms produced by allergic reactions.

Reactions may be avoided by lengthening the course of treatment and by not increasing the amount of pollen injected too rapidly.

Check Treatment

After the treatment was completed, tests were made to determine how much protection the patients had attained. These were done by placing some of the pollen against the conjunctiva or lining membrane of the eyeball and noting whether or not a reaction occurred in the form of watering of the eye and redness.

Skin tests were also made. The patients who were found to react to less than 250 units of the pollen in the conjunctiva and to less than 1/10 of a unit in the skin may not be expected to experience complete relief from hay fever.

It would appear that this meth-

A Courageous Leader

For the first time since Abraham Lincoln's death 80 years ago, the United States must sustain the loss of a president in a war crisis.

Each of us must resolve to give our republic the full advantage of the constitutional procedure to protect the orderly continuation of government. This will be done.

Franklin D. Roosevelt's death will not interfere with prosecution of the war. Allied strategy has been decided and is now in effect. The conduct of further operations is in sure hands.

President Truman takes up the burden of the Presidency with assurance of all the help his countrymen can give him. The peoples' prayers will strengthen him.

Mr. Roosevelt's long tenure in the nation's highest office and his role as a peacetime leader who accepted the challenge of aggression to become a bulwark against the enemies of freedom gave him unique political prestige. But the eventuality of death must always be faced; we must accept it as must all peoples who find strong leaders.

In all the theaters of war, American men and women have been saddened by the tragedy that overtook their commander-in-chief when the victory they had approached under his guidance seemed so near. Throughout the nation, in homes, in public places, on the streets, tears were shed. And throughout the world people who had looked to Mr. Roosevelt as a great leader share in America's mourning.

Courage was Mr. Roosevelt's shining badge of leadership. For 12 years aspects of his political character which displeased critics have been discussed openly, in the American tradition of free speech. His shortcomings and his merits all were known.

But no one ever questioned his courage and his unflinching devotion to the hard tasks he set for himself. We commend him to posterity, knowing that he will be accepted as we knew him in this lifetime—a great American.

No one can speak with certainty of the new political patterns that will come into being with his death. Mr. Truman has inherited unusual party responsibility as well as a great administrative burden. There is nothing to be gained now, and perhaps something to be lost, by trying to comprehend too much too soon.

Despite recurrent rumors of Mr. Roosevelt's declining health during the last year, the nation had not fully prepared itself for the blow that fell Thursday. It was our wishful thought that Mr. Roosevelt would like to finish the work he had carried so far toward completion. The warnings voiced in last year's presidential contest fell on deaf ears. The people could not believe what they feared might happen.

But now it has happened. The same old problems pass into the hands of a new president. Mr. Truman must guide the arrangements for the conclusion of the war, the peace and the means of preserving peace.

There will be inevitably a hiatus while new hands pick up the dropped threads. But there will be no change in intentions or hopes. Our direction has been pointed out. Our determination to fulfill America's destiny as the last best hope of mankind will not falter.

We will find new courage in the example of a great American who never failed us when courage was needed. There could be no nobler memorial to his memory.

Thomas Jefferson: National Asset

The weird arrangement under which political parties stake out claims on the prestige of our greatest men has given the modern Democratic party prior rights on Thomas Jefferson, who engaged in politics as a Republican. His party's name, of course, did not continue into the times of the modern Republicans, though the alchemy of politics has grouped him more closely with them than with the Democrats since 1933.

Perhaps what is needed is a statute putting great men into the public domain within 10 years after their death, to avert confusion. Thomas Jefferson, on this year's celebration of the anniversary of his birth in 1743 as on many preceding occasions, rightly belongs to all the people. For many generations he has had his rightful place as one of the several really important sources of the great thoughts on which the nation's survival has depended. While the stature of men who were considered more important than he during his lifetime has remained fixed, or in some instances declined, his stature has grown steadily.

This can be ascribed to a single cause. Jefferson, a many-sided man, attained rare philosophic balance in the pursuit of his numerous interests—that was his fixed goal, as statesman, diplomat, author, scientist, architect and thinker. Had he not become President, he would be remembered as the author of the Declaration of Independence. Lacking either of these distinctions, he would have been remembered as a great patriot, or as one who excelled in one of his other pursuits. In sum, it was his ability to think clearly in the interest of all the people which has commended him for his special niche in history. While the benefit of that thinking remains with us, the property of all people, we will be justified in retaining the faith which made him perhaps the greatest apostle of the American dream.

Too Much To Hope

DON'T CASH . . . your chickens before they hatch

The Bonds you now own—and are going to buy from now until Victory, won't be ready to try their wings until the war is won. So why try to cash them in before they reach maturity? Aside from the fact that they'll be worth more in future years, you hold back supplies from our fighting forces every time you cash a War Bond before our enemies' unconditional surrender!

SIDE GLANCES

"Can I borrow half a dollar, please? We're organizing another major league and all we need is a ball!"

Pfc. John Baulo, Leetonia, Wins Bravery Medal

LEETONIA, April 14.—Pfc. John A. Baulo, of the 10th Infantry regiment with the Fifth Infantry division in Luxembourg, recently was awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action on Sept. 10, 1944, near Arncliffe, France.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Baulo, 73 Washington st.

Pfc. Baulo, a rifleman, was a member of a four-man patrol assigned the hazardous mission of reconnoitering the enemy's strength and position forward of our lines.

When the patrol had advanced about 200 yards it was surprised by sweeping automatic fire from a concealed enemy stronghold, killing the automatic rifleman and pinning down the surviving members of the patrol.

Pfc. Baulo, perceiving the situation, without hesitation or thought of personal safety, crawled over the exposed terrain under intense enemy fire to his fallen comrade and succeeded in retrieving the automatic weapon. Despite the danger, he picked up the weapon and fired accurate and devastating fire upon the enemy emplacement, killing the members of the gun crew.

Pfc. Baulo's courage and aggressive actions were of immeasurable value in the prevention of casualties to the patrol and the attainment of our forces' objective, the citation reads. His loyalty and unswerving devotion to duty reflect great credit on himself and the armed forces.

He has been overseas since September, 1941, spending two years in Iceland prior to going to England.

Two brothers are in the services overseas, Corp. Joseph Baulo in Germany and overseas two years, and T/S Gene Baulo in England and overseas three years.

Pfc. Baulo was wounded twice and has returned to his company.

THE AMERICAN HOUSE

WHEN I saw the inside of the American House I felt a little cheated. The carpets were red and green, to be sure, but the roses had been worn almost beyond recognition, and although the parlor was too hard to suggest careful living, the tin tub fell short of my expectations—I had expected a kind of Roman bath—and the sign CAUTION above the faucets belied stories of extravagance. The dumb-waiter, which I had pictured as a kind of agile automaton, proved to be no more than a crude framework (topped by an enormous knot), which moved with creaks and tremors.

Still there was the furnace, a great black monster, sending out long tentacles into the darkness of the cellar. There was hot water—in season for local calls, the other for long distance. And there was the electric bell. You had only to press a button in any of the upper rooms and a gilt arrow moved unsteadily in a glass-covered case in the office. The mechanism was out of adjustment, and no one downstairs could be sure what room was calling, but the buzz was impressive.

Otherwise the place was undistinguished. The kitchen was in the basement of the old house. Its concrete floor and gray sheathing gave it a moist, tasteless look. It held a huge, square stove with a rusted top, bearing a copper tank, green like boats below the waterline; a table covered with oilcloth that looked as though it had been scaled; a row for pots and a rack for knives and cleavers; a large milk closet, screened with mosquito netting; a large pump with a long, perpendicular handle, which filled the tank in the attic; and a sink, also rusted, with a shelf above it where a row of lamps stood.

At the head of the kitchen stairs was the serving room, once half of the whole first floor. On the back, two windows looked out over the yard; on the side, two high ones over the landing; and on the front the two that had faced the village were now painted gray, like the walls. Between them were shelves stacked with heavy white dishes—plates, cups, nappies, butter chips, tiered up like silver dollars.

A swinging door opened into the dining room—not too easily because of the uneven meeting of the floors. Here in each corner was a table set for six and in the center a large one, which we came to know as the Transient Table. All of them were swathed in chesecloth, and above each hung a spiral of flypaper.

Across the hall was the office, running the depth of the entire building, old part and new. It was finished in brown sheathing.

One row of armchairs, leather-seated, lined the front; another formed a semi-circle around the stove, which stood in the middle of the room. The desk was in the back corner. On it was a cigar case, a clipper, a contraption for cutting plug tobacco, a circular inkwell with a wire helix, a paper weight of polished copper, and a register with a mottled leather cover. Opposite the desk were a safe, a row of tin wash basins, a roller towel, and a chocolate-colored water tank with a red rose above its spigot.

On the second floor were the parlor, the bathroom, the linen closet, and four bedrooms. The parlor was directly at the head of the stairs, facing the village. It was our greatest disappointment. Though my mother had never passed on any stories, we had heard them, just the same. There had been parties in that parlor, wild parties, parties that had seen wine and cigars. People had played cards, perhaps even gambled there. Yet it had turned out to be only a small, dingy room, with stiff, varnished furniture, primly placed.

The bedrooms in the house were furnished alike throughout. Each had a bed, a commode, a straight chair, and a bureau with a swinging mirror—all highly varnished. The floors were covered with straw matting, and the walls were papered with brown "oatmeal." The rooms were fairly large, but they differed in contour, for those on the back of the third and fourth floors were cut off by the roof and distorted by dormers.

Our rooms were on the corner of the second floor. The one my parents shared was toward the village. Ours looked out over the back yard, now muddy and rutted. It had five windows—one on the back, one, painted over like those in the serving room, facing the hall; and three on the side. Of these, two were so high that you had to stand on tiptoe to see out, and their third was a porthole.

We drew lots for the walls, but we divided the closet less peacefully. It was a very small closet, well cut into by the chimney. There were 12 hooks in it, and a nail.

"I shall have the nail," Sue said. "Tim the oldest."

That started us off.

"How old you are doesn't have anything to do with it," Julia insisted.

I backed her up noisily.

"Girls, girls," my mother called. "No quarreling! You'll just have to manage somehow. It's only for a little while, anyway."

Poor Mama! She really believed it.

Pfc. John Baulo, Leetonia, Wins Bravery Medal

LEETONIA, April 14—Pfc. John A. Baulo, of the 10th Infantry regiment with the Fifth Infantry division in Luxembourg, recently was awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action on Sept. 10, 1944, near Arnville, France.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Baulo, 73 Washington st.

Pfc. Baulo, a rifleman, was a member of a four-man patrol assigned the hazardous mission of reconnoitering the enemy's strength and position forward of our lines. When the patrol had advanced about 200 yards it was surprised by sweeping automatic fire from a concealed enemy stronghold, killing the automatic rifleman and pinning down the surviving members of the patrol.

Pfc. Baulo, perceiving the situation, without hesitation or thought of personal safety, crawled over the exposed terrain under intense enemy fire to his fallen comrade and succeeded in retrieving the automatic weapon. Despite the danger, he picked up the weapon and fired accurate and devastating fire upon the enemy emplacement, killing the members of the gun crew.

Pfc. Baulo's courage and aggressive actions were of immeasurable value in the prevention of casualties to the patrol and the attainment of our forces' objective, the citation reads. His loyalty and unswerving devotion to duty reflect great credit on himself and the armed forces.

He has been overseas since September, 1941, spending two years in Iceland prior to going to England. Two brothers are in the services overseas. Corp. Joseph Baulo in Germany and overseas two years, and T/S Gene Baulo in England and overseas three years.

Pfc. Baulo was wounded twice and has returned to his company.

Army's Work Goes On

LONDON—Salvation Army leaders now are preparing for their own "invasion of liberated Europe." The first British Salvation Army man to establish direct communication with those who continued their Army work through the German occupation has just returned to London.

He is Commissioner R. M. Astbury, international secretary, and he brought back information about broken Europe's needs for use in drawing up Salvation Army plans for post-war relief.

THE AMERICAN HOUSE

WHEN I saw the inside of the American House I felt a little cheated. The carpets were red and green, to be sure, but their roses had been worn almost beyond recognition, and, although the wicker suite in the parlor was too hard to suggest easy living, the tin tub I had expected a kind of Roman bath—and the sign CAUTION above the faucets belied stories of extravagance. The dumb-waiter, which I had pictured as a kind of agile automaton, proved to be no more than a crude framework (topped by an enormous knot), which moved with creaks and tremors.

Still there was the furnace, a great black monster, sending out long tentacles into the darkness of the cellar. There was hot water—in season. There were two telephones, one for local calls, the other for long distance. And there was the electric bell. You had only to press a button in any of the upper rooms and a gilt arrow moved unsteadily in a glass-covered case in the office. The mechanism was out of adjustment, and no one downstairs could be sure what room was calling, but the buzz was impressive.

Otherwise the place was undistinguished. The kitchen was in the basement of the old house. Its concrete floor and gray sheathing gave it a moist, tasteless look. It held a huge, square stove with a rusted top, bearing a copper tank, green green like boats below the waterline; a table covered with oilcloth that looked as though it had been sealed; a row for pots and a rack for knives and cleavers; a high milk closet, screened with mosquito netting; a large pump with a long, perpendicular handle, which filled the tank in the attic; and a sink, also rusted, with a shelf above it where a row of lamps stood.

At the head of the kitchen stairs was the serving room, once half of the whole first floor. On the back, two windows looked out over the yard; on the side, two high ones over the landing; and on the front the two that had faced the village were now painted gray, like the walls. Between them were shelves stacked with heavy, white dishes—plates, cups, nappies, butter chips tiered up like silver dollars.

A swinging door opened into the dining room—not too easily because of the uneven meeting of the floors. Here in each corner was a table set for six and in the center a large one, which we came to know as the Transient Table. All of them were swathed in cheesecloth, and above each hung a spiral of flypaper.

Across the hall was the office, running the depth of the entire building, old part and new. It was finished in brown sheathing.

One row of armchairs, leather-seated, lined the front; another formed a semi-circle around the stove, which stood in the middle of the room. The desk was at the back corner. On it was a cigar case, a clipper, a contraption for cutting plug tobacco, a circular inkwell with a wire helix, a paper weight of polished copper, and a register with a mottled leather cover. Opposite the desk were a safe, a row of tin wash basins, a roller towel, and a chocolate-colored water tank with a red rose above its spigot.

On the second floor were the parlor, the bathroom, the linen closet, and four bedrooms. The parlor was directly at the head of the stairs, facing the village. It was our greatest disappointment. Though my mother had never passed on any stories, we had heard them, just the same. There had been parties in that parlor, wild parties, parties that had seen wine and cigars. People had gambled cards, perhaps even gambled there. Yet it had turned out to be only a small, dingy room, with stiff, varnished furniture, primly placed.

The bedrooms in the house were furnished alike throughout. Each had a bed, a commode, a straight chair, and a bureau with a swinging mirror—all highly varnished. The floors were covered with straw matting, and the walls were papered with brown "oatmeal." The rooms were fairly large, but they differed in contour, for those on the back of the third and fourth floors were cut off by the roof and distorted by dormers.

Our rooms were on the corner of the second floor. The one my parents shared was toward the village. Ours looked out over the back yard, now muddy and rutted. It had five windows—one on the back; one, painted over like those in the serving room, facing the hall; and three on the side. Of these, two were so high that you had to stand on tiptoe to see out, and their third was a porthole.

We drew lots for the walls, but we divided the closet less peacefully. It was a very small closet, well cut into by the chimney. There were 12 hooks in it, and a nail.

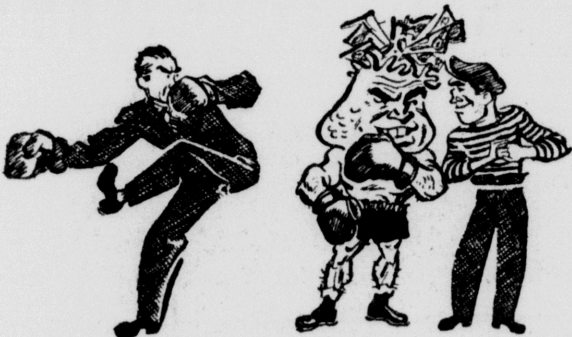

How to win a tough scrap before it starts

NEXT MONTH, YOU'RE FACING a scrap with a pretty rugged opponent.

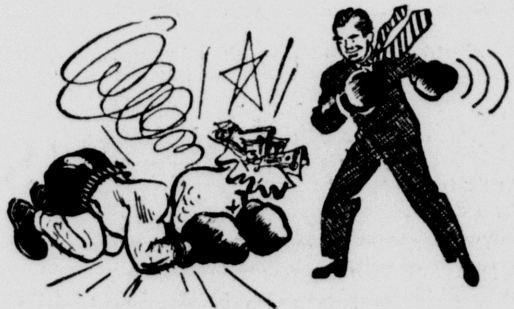

This baby is the biggest character of his kind you've ever had to tangle with. (You'll find his weight listed in the tables below.)

But 26 million other Americans can tell you how to tip the scales in your favor.

It's simple. Just start swinging now—before he takes a poke at you.

This 7th War Loan doesn't really get started until next month. But you can get started now. Like the 26 million patriotic Americans on the Payroll Savings Plan, you can start putting an extra part of your paycheck—over and above your regular bond purchases—into War Bonds right now.

Then, when that 7th War Loan starts, you'll have a big part of your share of extra Bonds already bought and paid for.

The reason your quota is so big this time is simple.

1st, whether we're fighting Germans and Japs, or Japs alone, there'll be no easing up in this fight till every last enemy is on his knees—or dead.

2nd, to save time and work, there will be fewer War Loans this year. Only 2 instead of 3. That means we must tackle a bigger loan both times.

So don't give that quota a chance to buffalo you. Start licking it right now. Sock away an extra slice of your pay into War Bonds this week and every week till your quota's licked.

It's a tough customer to beat. But not one millionth as tough as the opponents some of your friends and relatives are facing over their bayonets. And every punch at your opponent helps lick theirs, too.

MacPhail Plans Enlarging Yankee Stadium To Hold 100,000

POST-WAR PLAN IN PAPER STAGE

Giants Conclude Trading For Spring, Everyone Ready for Openers

By JOE REICHLER
NEW YORK, April 14.—Yankee stadium, already the largest individually owned baseball park with a seating capacity of 72,000, will be expanded to a postwar capacity of 100,000.
Larry MacPhail, president of the Yankees, revealed yesterday that engineers were working on blueprints to install an extra tier of bleachers, increasing the present capacity 40 per cent.
Only three fields in the country have a seating capacity of more than 100,000. They are the Los Angeles Coliseum, Soldier Field in Chicago, and Philadelphia's Municipal stadium.
Cleveland's Municipal stadium, a civic enterprise, seats more people than the Yankee stadium, but the latter holds the record for attendance when a standing room crowd of 84,041 witnessed a Yankee-Red Sox doubleheader on May 30, 1938.

Conclude Trades
The New York Giants concluded two player transactions yesterday, trading Shortstop Roy Nichols to Jersey City for the 30-year-old veteran second baseman, Johnny Hudson, and sending Outfielder Charlie Mead on option to the Little League.

Other major league notes:
Philadelphia Phillies—Buster Adams, who hit 283 last year, broke a long holdout siege after telephone conversation with Manager Fred Fitzsimmons. Pitcher Whit Wyatt, purchased from the Dodgers, expected to report before the opening game.
Philadelphia Athletics—Broke up training camp today after canceling exhibition games with Baltimore yesterday and Phillies today.
St. Louis Browns and Cardinals—Meet tomorrow in sixth clash with Browns seeking fifth victory. Jack Kramer and Nels Potter of Browns to face George Dockins, Ken Burkhardt and Al Jurisch of Cards.
Boston Braves—Infielder Whitey Wittmann fractured his left little finger during batting practice. Will be out for an indefinite period.

During the Utah State High school basketball tournament final, Joe Weight, Provo's All-State center, quickly accumulated four fouls and was taken out to cool off for a minute. St. Louis World Series Is In Sight Again For 1945 Season

The fourth war year—and it's still the ol' BAWL game.

BY HARRY GRAYSON
ST. LOUIS — Selective service has again looked kindly on the St. Louis clubs, and their efficient organizations have once more bobbed up with the superior placements, so the chances are that the ODT for the second straight year will have no problem with the World Series next fall.
The draft and its war work auxiliary have shaved down and seem to have stabilized the remainder of the clubs, so they seem destined to finish just where they wound up last October. As a matter of fact, this old observer, ordinarily a long-shot stabber, is making only two slight changes in the National League and only one in the American.

With the wish that there were three fourth slots to be passed around, I'm giving the Giants third place and dropping the Reds to fifth. And picture the Phillies escaping from the dark confines of the basement under the prostrate forms of the Dodgers.

Tigers Face Run Famine
The Cardinals lost Stan Musial and Danny Litwhiler, but still have the Coopers, Ray Sanders, Emil Verban, Whitey Kurowski, Johnny Hopp, Augie Bergamo and a kid named Red Schoendienst and some more.

The Pirates closed with a rush last fall, but caught the Red Birds when they had an 18-game lead and didn't care. The Cubs are also without Pete Coscarart an improved second baseman.
With Dick Wakefield and Pinky Higgins in the armed forces, I can't see what the Tigers are going to use for runs, for which reason the Yankees are installed as runners-up.

So here are the rankings, even if they do look natural:

National	American
St. Louis	St. Louis
Pittsburgh	New York
New York	Detroit
Chicago	Boston
Cincinnati	Cleveland
Boston	Philadelphia
Philadelphia	Chicago
Brooklyn	Washington

The Giants, Cubs, Reds and Braves are closely bunched, but the Pojo Grounders appear to have some pitching to go along with Bill Voiselle and Buddy Kerr is now a short field full of shortstop. Just when things appeared most promising, the Wrigleys stumbled into a sore arm pitching epidemic.
The Rhinelanders start sans four pitchers who started 72 games last season and a broken kneecap has shortstop Eddie Miller on the sidelines until June 15. The Boston infield hardly can be as porous as it was in 1944, which will be a help, but scarcely enough to revive memories of the miracle Braves of 1914.

Draft Holds Yanks' Fate
In the American, the Browns are least hurt of all in the draft, and acquired outstanding minor leaguers in outfielders Babe Martin and Pete Gray and infielder Len Settle, not to mention new hands among the pitchers.
The fate of the Yankees depends on draft boards, the cases being those of such wartime stalwarts as outfielders Johnny Lindell, Tuck Stainback and infielders Nick Etten, Snuffy Stirrweiss and Oscar

Pro Cage Quintets Get All The Points In Meet

CHICAGO — Basketball scores really soared in the recent world professional tournament here.
In 14 games, there were 1,532 points, an average of almost 111 per game. In but one game, a first round contest in which the Dayton Aces beat the Grumman Hellcats of Long Island, N. Y., 43 to 27, was the total score less than 100.
The Aces came back in a semifinal to beat the Chicago American Gears, 80 to 51, to establish a new tournament high.
Hugh (Shorty) Ray, football rules expert who clocked the games to determine where and how time is lost, said baskets were recorded at the rate of one every 48 seconds, and that teams were in action 33.45 minutes of the regular playing time of 40.4 minutes.

Events Canceled In U. S. As Nation Takes "Time Out" To Honor President

BY FRED HAYDEN
NEW YORK, April 14.—With few exceptions, the sports world took time out today to join the nation in mourning for the late President Roosevelt.

All major league baseball exhibition games were cancelled, as were the Pacific Coast league's contests scheduled for tonight. Several universities called off their baseball games.

The National Dinghy races, slated for Larchmont, N. Y. Yacht club, were postponed to April 21-22. Tia Juana race track at Agua Caliente, Mexico, cancelled its program and will resume Sunday. Going through with their programs today were the Toronto-Detroit Stanley Cup hockey game at Toronto.

Only two major league baseball teams played exhibitions yesterday. The Washington Senators bowed to Buffalo (IL), 4-6, at Fort Meade, Md., while the Cincinnati Reds beat Louisville (AA) at the latter's park, 6-6.

Roy Cullenbine To Work Hot Corner Job Until Boss Can Think Of Better Place

(By Associated Press)
MUNCIE, Ind., April 14.—Roy Cullenbine, who hasn't played third base since 1938, will cover the Keltner-Korner for the Cleveland Indians against Chicago in Tuesday's opening game.

Manager Lou Boudreau nominated the long hitting outfielder for the job as he announced his official opening day lineup with the catcher still undecided.

The youthful manager said he planned to use Roy at third when a fast ball pitcher like Allie Reynolds or Steve Gromek worked. Ed Wheeler and Bob Rothel, two rookies who field the position better than Cullenbine, will divide the job when curve ball or control pitchers hurl, until one of the trio cinches the assignment.

Reynolds will pitch the opening game, other starters: Mickey Rocco, first; Al Chiocki, second; Boudreau, short; Pat Seery, left field; Myril Hoag, center field; Ed Carnett, right field.

A large turnout of Columbiana county sportsmen is expected at 7:30 p. m. Monday at St. George's parish in Lisbon, when the County Fish and Game association will hold its annual meeting.

All interested parties are invited to attend the affair, when plans will be made for the annual field trials, which generally attract more than 300 dog owners and their entries.

There is a guaranteed purse of $300 in the field trials, officials announced.

Baseball and Softball Not Same Sport — Emswiler

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, April 14.—The Ohio High School Athletic association has decided baseball and softball are not the same sport.
Under that ruling, it was explained by Harold W. Emswiler, commissioner of the OHSAA. Members of the High school baseball teams also can play with independent softball teams without endangering their scholastic baseball eligibility.

MacPhail Plans Enlarging Yankee Stadium To Hold 100,000

POST-WAR PLAN IN PAPER STAGE

Giants Conclude Trading For Spring, Everyone Ready for Openers

By JOE REICHLER
NEW YORK, April 14.—Yankee stadium, already the largest individually owned baseball park with a seating capacity of 72,000, will be expanded to a postwar capacity of 100,000.

Larry MacPhail, president of the Yankees, revealed yesterday that engineers were working on blueprints to install an extra tier of bleachers, increasing the present capacity 40 per cent.

Only three fields in the country have a seating capacity of more than 100,000. They are the Los Angeles Coliseum, Soldier Field in Chicago, and Philadelphia's Municipal stadium.

Cleveland's Municipal stadium, a civic enterprise, seats more people than the Yankee stadium, but the latter holds the record for attendance when a standing room crowd of 84,041 witnessed a Yankee-Red Sox doubleheader on May 30, 1938.

Conclude Trades
The New York Giants concluded two player transactions yesterday, trading Shortstop Roy Nichols to Jersey City for the 30-year-old veteran second baseman, Johnny Hudson, and sending Outfielder Charlie Mead on option to the Little Giants.

Other major league notes:
Philadelphia Phillies—Buster Adams, who hit 283 last year, broke a long drought since after telephone conversation with Manager Fred Fitzsimmons. Pitcher Whit Wyatt, purchased from the Dodgers, expected to report before the opening game.

Philadelphia Athletics—Broke up training camp today after canceling exhibition games with Bainbridge yesterday and Phillies today.

St. Louis Browns and Cardinals—Meet tomorrow in sixth clash with Browns seeking fifth victory. Jack Kramer and Nels Potter of Browns to face George Dockins, Ken Burkhardt and Al Jurich of Cards.

Boston Braves—Infielder Whitely Wietelmann fractured his left little finger during batting practice. Will be out for an indefinite period.

Grimes, with Lindell the most vulnerable.

The Red Sox possess Bob Johnson, Pete Fox, two kid infielders of promise, questionable pitching and practically no catching. Jeff Heath started the Cleveland trouble early. The A's could surprise, but not to too great an extent. The White Sox are held in the league by the Senators.

So a housing problem in St. Louis is unlikely until another World Series rolls around, when Billy Southworth and Luke Sewell again toss to see who moves out of the apartment they share.

DERRINGER SEEKS OLD TRICKS NOW ABSENT FIVE YEARS

Veteran Who Had Them Eating From Pitching Hand Back In Shape

CHICAGO, April 13.—It's been five seasons since Big Paul Derringer last made National league hitters eat out of his powerful right hand, but this summer the 38-year-old veteran may be up to his old tricks.

The one-time mound great of the Cincinnati Reds is scheduled to hurl the opener for the Chicago Cubs against the Champion St. Louis Cardinals here Tuesday and there's nothing sentimental about Manager Charley Grimm's selection.

Derringer apparently clinched that right when he land-cuffed the Chicago White Sox in Thursday's opener of the current spring city series, but actually he staked the claim the first day he turned up for practice at French Lick, Ind.

Is In Shape
"For three reasons, I've been jinxed with ailments in spring practice," Derringer declared then. "There isn't any substitute for conditioning and I'm making it a point to see that nothing prevents me from getting in shape this year."

Derringer crashed the major leagues in 1931 with the St. Louis Cardinals, winning 18 games as a Freshman. Two seasons later he was traded to the Reds for whom he starred nine seasons, reaching a peak in 1939 when he won 25 and lost only seven. He was sold to the Cubs in 1943.

Athletics To Work Out At Park Diamond Sunday

The Salem Athletics will practice at 2:30 p. m. at the Centennial park baseball diamond. Sponsor Scott Chisholm announced today. All team members and others interested in tryouts are asked to be at the diamond promptly at 2:30.

Another Gilhooley

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 14.—Frank Gilhooley of Toledo, O., son of Frank (Flash) Gilhooley, a one time leading base stealer in the major leagues, is captain of Notre Dame's 1945 baseball team. His father formerly played with the New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox.

Confidentially, It's Smelt

Tad Johnson is among thousands in on annual smelt run to Sandy River spawning grounds, Portland, Ore. It's a good way to tide over meat rationing.

Roy Cullenbine To Work Hot Corner Job Until Boss Can Think Of Better Place

(By Associated Press)

MUNCIE, Ind., April 14.—Roy Cullenbine, who hasn't played third base since 1938, will cover the Ketterer-Korner for the Cleveland Indians against Chicago in Tuesday's opening game.

Manager Lou Boudreau nominated the long hitting outfielder for the job as he announced his official opening day lineup with the catcher still undecided.

The youthful manager said he planned to use Roy at third when a fast ball pitcher like Allie Reynolds or Steve Gromek worked. Ed Wheeler and Bob Rothel, two rookies who field the position better than Cullenbine, will divide the job when curve ball or control pitchers hurl, until one of the trio clinches the assignment.

Reynolds will pitch the opening game, other starters: Mickey Rocco, first; Al Cihocki, second; Boudreau, short; Pat Seery, left field; Myril Hoag, center field; Ed Carnett, right field.

COUNTY SPORTSMEN TO MEET ON MONDAY

A large turnout of Columbiana county sportsmen is expected at 7:30 p. m. Monday at St. George's parish in Lebanon, when the County Fish and Game association will hold its annual meeting.

All interested parties are invited to attend the affair, when plans will be made for the annual field trials, which generally attract more than 300 dog owners and their entries.

There is a guaranteed purse of $300 in the field trials, officials announced.

Baseball and Softball Not Same Sport — Emswiler

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, April 14.—The Ohio High School Athletic association has decided baseball and softball are not the same sport.

Under that ruling, it was explained by Harold W. Emswiler, commissioner of the OHSAA. Members of the high school baseball teams also can play with independent softball teams without endangering their scholastic baseball eligibility.

The War Today..

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

By J. M. ROBERTS, Jr.
Substituting For DeWitt MacKenzie

PRESIDENT TRUMAN and Secretary Stettinius have proclaimed "no change" in American foreign policy. There is one place where they may have a hard time making the proclamation stick. Of all his personal diplomacy, President Roosevelt's policy regarding Russia probably depended more directly on him than any other.

Labels are likely to prove inaccurate. It may not be strictly correct to them the Roosevelt Russian policy as "co-operation at any cost," but it was very close to that and also was probably the foreign policy which drew more criticism than any other.

Aside from those who always want to "get tough" when anyone fails to abide strictly by what Americans consider their country's ideals, there has been a more temperate expression of fear that by yielding to Russia on certain points affecting small nations, we have been stirring up a whirlwind.

This "no compromise on virtue" attitude probably has been held in check to a great extent, by widespread knowledge Roosevelt was far better informed on the subject than anyone else, that his motives were unquestioned, and that there was no course except to trust him.

Roosevelt obviously thought that the maintenance of machinery for co-operation between the Big Three was more important than anything else. He not only seemed to feel that in yielding now he could hope for enlightened changes later, but he also acted personally as a moderator between Joseph Stalin and Winston Churchill, the equator between what almost amounts to two poles.

Whether Roosevelt was right remains to be seen. He was conducting a campaign something similar to the one against isolationism in the United States. Russia's policy, at best, is self-sufficiency against any enemy. Roosevelt could hope that once she felt herself out of danger she would co-operate in eliminating danger for all, and after that she might relinquish some of the hegemony over her neighbors that she now feels necessary.

Those who disagree fear any compromise on principle, lest Russia, learning what she can do by flexing her muscles, become insatiable.

Truman and Stettinius cannot expect, for a time at least, to enjoy the same public confidence regarding foreign affairs as did the Roosevelt-Hull team. Those who disagreed with Roosevelt, but felt competent to go to the mat with him, and his unique store of information, may now be expected to become more insistent.

"No change" may be a diligently guarded watchword. Whether it can be accomplished is another matter.

New York City's subway system is the largest passenger-carrying railroad in the world, 5,716,000 fares being collected every day as 7,000 trains speed over 740 miles of subterranean track.

County Legionnaires Meet

Discussions of the activities of the County Coordination Service group of the American Legion featured a county council meeting at Wellsville last night as 24 candidates were initiated by members of the Salem post team.

The varying activity of the service group to returning war veterans was the primary topic of discussion. The group stood in a minute's silence in tribute to the late President Roosevelt.

Plan Annual Inspection

L. Bruce Taylor of Warren, district deputy grand master of the 25th district, will conduct the annual inspection of Salem City lodge No. 698, F & A. M., at 7:30 p. m. Monday in the Masonic temple.

Work in the Master Mason degree will be exemplified. Lunch will be served. Several representatives of the grand lodge are expected.

The choir of Emmanuel Lutheran church will hold a rehearsal at 2 p. m. Sunday.

Flashes Of Life

(By Associated Press)
WOMEN DON'T 'FARE' SO WELL IN MEMPHIS

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—After the war a motorman will still be a motorman in Memphis, says A. D. McWhorter, general superintendent of the Street Railway company.

The company advertised for 100 women car operators, got 16, and half of them have quit.

"When women operators are good they're really good," McWhorter says, "but when they're bad, they're awful."

He added that after the manpower shortage ends "the women will probably want to go back home."

HE PROBABLY THOUGHT HE WAS A DEAD DUCK

LONDON—A rescue squad leader searching the debris of a V-bombed house in southern England asked, "Is anybody there?" and a faint "Hello" came from beneath the tangled timbers. Each time the leader called he got the same reply. Finally his workers pulled out a parrot.

'SHORT PANTS' CLUB

LONDON—A "Short Pants Union" has been formed here and its secretary says: "On a chosen day members will wear short trousers. After the precedent has been established no one will be thought queer for doing so." Londonderry tailors now are forming a society for "counter-propaganda."

DOMESTIC SWITCH

BIRMINGHAM, England—One hundred housewives in a residential district got so tired of staying home at night that they formed their own health and beauty class. It meets weekly and the husbands look after the children.

RADIO WAVES THROW BIRDS OFF THE BEAM

WASHINGTON—Radio waves seriously hamper the "homing" performance of pigeons, the Army Signal Corps reports. During tests, pigeons sent home from a transmitting station while it was operating just circled erratically and finally covered the ten miles home in about 50 minutes. But birds released while the station was silent went right home in about 20 minutes.

Leash Dogs That Bite, Or No Mail, City Warns

LINCOLN, Neb.—Dog owners at Lincoln have been warned mail will not be delivered to their homes unless vicious dogs are leashed.

Last year, seven Lincoln mail carriers were bitten by unfriendly dogs, and assistant postmaster, L. H. Watson has announced the postmen will not be required to deliver letters to homes owning such animals. Throughout the country, 1,259 carriers were bitten during 1944 he said.

According to reports, one Lincoln carrier suffered bites from two different dogs the same day, and on another occasion, two were attacked the same day, at approximately the same location.

Through the Years In Office With President Roosevelt

THESE CAMERA STUDIES of Franklin D. Roosevelt were taken at the time the late President was elected and re-elected to the highest office in the land. Mr. Roosevelt is shown, left to right, as he was first elected in 1932, re-elected in 1936, 1940 and 1944.

Grand Jury Will Resume Gaming Probe Next Week

LISBON, April 14.—The grand jury completed its eighth day of the gambling investigation yesterday and recessed until 9 a. m. Wednesday when it will resume probing into the East Liverpool situation.

Friday's time was devoted to examining Rev. Clyde Canfield, president of the East Liverpool Ministerial association, a trip to the Mahoning county jail where Columbiana county prisoners are housed, and an afternoon session with William Griffith, of Youngstown, who investigated vice in the Ohio Valley community in connection with the slaying of Steve Phillips last February.

Between 20 and 30 more witnesses have been subpoenaed for next Wednesday and Thursday, which will bring the total called before the special inquiry to more than 90.

OBITUARY

PRIMM SERVICES

Funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. Monday at the Arbaugh-Pearce funeral home for Thomas M. Primm, 41, husband of Mrs. Nina Hoffman Primm, 335 N. Ellsworth ave., who died at the McConnellsville sanatorium yesterday following three months' illness. Rev. C. F. Evans will be in charge.

Burial will be in Grandview cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday evening.

Survivors include three brothers, James D. Primm of Salem, Kenneth D. of Clarkburg, W. Va., and Charles of Damascus, and three sisters, Mrs. L. D. Redman of Damascus, Mrs. C. F. Israel of Clarkburg and Mrs. Lynn Caulfield of Youngstown.

JOHN SCHMIDT

The funeral service for John Schmidt of Los Angeles, Calif., formerly of Salem, who died Wednesday at the home of his son, Andrew, will be held at 3 p. m. Monday at the Stark Memorial in charge of Rev. John Bauman, pastor of Emmanuel Lutheran church. Interment will be in Grandview cemetery.

He had been in ill health two years.

Mr. Schmidt was born Jan. 28, 1876, in Austria-Hungary. He came to this country in 1911. For a number of years he was employed by the National Sanitary Co. He was a member of Emmanuel Lutheran church and the Saxon club. He had been in California the past 15 months.

He is survived by seven sons, John, Jr., and George of Cleveland; Simon of Chardon, Andrew, Michael and William of Los Angeles, and Fred, who is in the service in Africa, and seven grandchildren.

MRS. JOHN GOLDRICK
Mrs. Estella Goldrick, 62, died at 5:15 a. m. today at her home 345 Walker ave., Alliance. She had been ill for several months.

A daughter of Lynn and Eliza Twaddle, she had spent her early life in Calineville. She had lived in Alliance since 1901 where she was a member of the Presbyterian church and the Daughters of Union Veterans.

She is survived by her husband, John, and two sons, Leonard of Alliance, and Richard of Arlington, N. Y.; two brothers, Clarence Twaddle of R. D. 1, Kensington, and George Twaddle of R. D. 4, Lisbon. The funeral will be held at 2 p. m. Monday at the Cassaday & Turkle funeral home, Alliance. Interment will be in the Alliance cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 to 9 p. m. Sunday.

PASCO FUNERAL

The funeral service for Samuel Pasco, 65, a city service employee, who died suddenly Thursday night, will be held at 1:30 p. m. Monday at the Stark Memorial in charge of Rev. S. T. Magann, pastor of the Baptist church. Interment will be in Grandview cemetery.

Friends may call at the Memorial Sunday afternoon and evening.

Ask Herbert To Run

CLEVELAND, April 14.—Friends of Thomas J. Herbert are encouraging the former state attorney general to reconsider his earlier refusal to run in the city mayoral race. Rep. George H. Bender, Republican organization leader, said today.

Opportunities to buy to advantage are found daily in The News classified advertising columns.

Wounded Nephew of Salem Woman Shows Yank Spirit

The admirable spirit of the wounded Yank veteran is well displayed in a recent letter to his parents and family from Lieut. Raymond V. Luthy, nephew of Mrs. E. Walters of the Goshen road, who had his left leg shot away above the knee while in action at Iwo Jima.

The soldier is a resident of New Bedford, Mass., where his parents, Rev. and Mrs. S. Raymond Luthy, and his wife, Shirley, and children now live. He was born in Japan and speaks the language fluently, thereby being of great value to the U. S. Forces as an interpreter.

He wrote the family: "Folks, this is the way I look at it: You can cry over split milk. True, you can have certain handicaps, but I know me. I have always had a kind of a push on my way through. That is the way I feel here. I also that I will try my damndest to give Shirley and the children the best kind of a life possible and through their enjoyment of things I perhaps cannot do, I will pass my happiness through them."

The War Today..

PRESIDENT TRUMAN and Secretary Stettinius have proclaimed "no change" in American foreign policy. There is one place where they may have a hard time making the proclamation stick.

Of all his personal diplomacy, President Roosevelt's policy regarding Russia probably depended more directly on him than any other.

Labels are likely to prove inaccurate. It may not be strictly correct to "them the Roosevelt Russian policy as "co-operation at any cost," but it was very close to that and also was probably the foreign policy which drew more criticism than any other.

Aside from those who always want to "get tough" when anyone fails to abide strictly by what Americans consider their country's ideals, there has been a more temperate expression of fear that by yielding to Russia on certain points affecting small nations, we have been stirring up a whirlwind.

This "no compromise on virtue" attitude probably has been held in check, to a great extent, by widespread knowledge Roosevelt was far better informed on the subject than anyone else, that his motives were unquestionable, and that there was no course except to trust him.

Roosevelt obviously thought that the maintenance of machinery for co-operation between the Big Three was more important than anything else. He not only seemed to feel that in yielding now he could hope for enlightened changes later, but he also acted personally as a moderator between Joseph Stalin and Winston Churchill, the equator between what almost amounts to two poles.

Whether Roosevelt was right remains to be seen. He was conducting a campaign something similar to the one against isolationism in the United States. Russia's policy, at best, is self-sufficiency against any enemy. Roosevelt could hope that once she felt herself out of danger she would co-operate in eliminating danger for all, and after that she might relinquish some of the hegemony over her neighbors that she now feels necessary.

Those who disagree fear any compromise on principle, lest Russia, learning what she can do by flexing her muscles, become insatiable.

Truman and Stettinius cannot expect, for a time at least, to enjoy the same public confidence regarding foreign affairs as did the Roosevelt-Hull team. Those who disagreed with Roosevelt, but felt incompetent to go to the mat with him and his unique store of information, may now be expected to become more insistent.

"No change" may be a diligently guarded watchword. Whether it can be accomplished is another matter.

New York City's subway system is the largest passenger-carrying railroad in the world, 5,716,000 fares being collected every day as 7,000 trains speed over 740 miles of subterranean track.

G. O. P. Aide

Former Senator John A. Danaher, above, of Connecticut, a Republican, has been named by Chairman Herbert Brownell, Jr., as "congressional aide" to the Republican National Committee.

County Legionnaires Meet

Discussions of the activities of the County Coordination Service group of the American Legion featured a county council meeting at Wellsville last night as 24 candidates were initiated by members of the Salem post team.

The varying activity of the service group to returning war veterans was the primary topic of discussion. The group stood in a minute's silence in tribute to the late President Roosevelt.

Plan Annual Inspection

L. Bruce Taylor of Warren, district deputy grand master of the 25th district, will conduct the annual inspection of Salem City lodge No. 698, F & A. M., at 7:30 p. m. Monday in the Masonic temple.

Work in the Master Mason degree will be exemplified. Lunch will be served. Several representatives of the grand lodge are expected.

Choir Rehearsal

The choir of Emmanuel Lutheran church will hold a rehearsal at 2 p. m. Sunday.

Flashes Of Life

(By Associated Press)

WOMEN DON'T FARE SO WELL IN MEMPHIS
MEMPHIS, Tenn.—After the war a motorman will still be a motorman in Memphis, says A. D. McWhorter, general superintendent of the Street Railway company.

The company advertised for 100 women car operators, got 16, and half of them have quit.

"When women operators are good they're really good," McWhorter says, "but when they're bad, they're awful."

He added that after the manpower shortage ends "the women will probably want to go back home."

HE PROBABLY THOUGHT HE WAS A DEAD DUCK

LONDON—A rescue squad leader searching the debris of a V-bombed house in southern England asked, "Is anybody there?" and a faint "Hello" came from beneath the tangled timbers. Each time the leader called he got the same reply. Finally his workers pulled out a parrot.

SHORT PANTS CLUB

LONDON—A "Short Pants Union" has been formed here and its secretary says: "On a chosen day members will wear short trousers. After the precedent has been established no one will be thought queer for doing so." Londonderry tailors now are forming a society for "counter-propaganda."

DOMESTIC SWITCH

BIRMINGHAM, England—One hundred housewives in a residential district got so tired of staying home at night that they formed their own health and beauty class. It meets weekly and the husbands look after the children.

RADIO WAVES THROW BIRDS OFF THE BEAM

WASHINGTON—Radio waves seriously hamper the "homing" performance of pigeons, the Army Signal Corps reports. During tests, pigeons sent home from a transmitting station while it was operating just circled erratically and finally covered the ten miles home in about 50 minutes. But birds released while the station was silent went right home in about 20 minutes.

Leash Dogs That Bite, Or No Mail, City Warns

LINCOLN, Neb.—Dog owners at Lincoln have been warned mail will not be delivered to their homes unless vicious dogs are leashed.

Last year, seven Lincoln mail carriers were bitten by unfriendly dogs, and assistant postmaster, L. H. Watson has announced the postmen will not be required to deliver letters to homes owning such animals. Throughout the country, 1,250 carriers were bitten during 1944 he said.

According to reports, one Lincoln carrier suffered bites from two different dogs the same day, and on another occasion, two were attacked the same day, at approximately the same location.

Through the Years In Office With President Roosevelt

THESE CAMERA STUDIES of Franklin D. Roosevelt were taken at the time the late President was elected and re-elected to the highest office in the land. Mr. Roosevelt is shown, left to right, as he was first elected in 1932, re-elected in 1936, 1940 and 1944.

Grand Jury Will Resume Gaming Probe Next Week

LISBON, April 14.—The grand jury completed its eighth day of the gambling investigation yesterday and recessed until 9 a. m. Wednesday when it will resume probing into the East Liverpool situation.

Friday's time was devoted to examining Rev. Clyde Canfield, president of the East Liverpool Ministerial association, a trip to the Mahoning county jail where Columbian county prisoners are housed, and an afternoon session with William Griffith, of Youngstown, who investigated vice in the Ohio Valley community in connection with the slaying of Steve Phillips last February.

Between 20 and 30 more witnesses have been subpoenaed for next Wednesday and Thursday, which will bring the total called before the special inquiry to more than 90.
